Acknowledgement

As a student of Journalism & Mass Communication of Daffodil International University, I am very much pleased to complete my internship as per the requirement of curriculum with success in The Daily Observer.

My sincere heartfelt appreciation goes to Professor Dr. Sakhawat Ali Khan who has enabled my mind and give courage to work in English dailies. His careful compliment and appreciation on my feature, while he was our course teacher of ‘Feature, Editorial and Creative Writing’ course, washed out my fear to work in English dailies.

I extend my appreciations to The Daily Observer family that gave me a chance to do Internship with them, particularly Mr. Abul Mansur Chowdhury, Joint News Editor, who endured long hours of concerted effort in ensuring that my internship training yields much to me and also thankful to Mr Moshiur Rahman, Sports Editor of the Daily Observer.

I am great full to the university supervisor Mr. Anayetur Rahman, Lecturer, Daffodil International University for having helped me in the supervision and guidance during the period of internship.

I wish to express my appreciation to Mrs. Quamrun Nahar, Assistant Professor, Press Institute of Bangladesh for her cooperation on my internship placement and valuable suggestions.

I am also indebted to all such Teachers from whose hands all support whatsoever was received.

It is impracticable to thank everyone by name, but I am grateful to all of you in your capacities for the support of all manners I received towards the end of this internship.

Introduction

1.1 Defining Internship with importance

Internship is a very much renowned learning process all over the world which revolves the hand on learning process by working in an office or a working place. Internship provide the knowledge and ideas of professional job field and give the chance to explore and gaining experiences from work place.

All over the world, there have mainly three types of internship, first one is Academic Internship and the second one is Organizational Internship and the third one is Interpersonal Internship or working as intern under someone professional. There have paid internship and non-paid internship in Bangladesh.

An internship must contain a fixed time period, where the intern will complete her/his task and try to learn and gathering experiences. Sometimes in organizational internship and interpersonal internship may extend the time period by authority having a discussion with the intern.

An internship is the channel, which make a collaboration between academic knowledge and field experience or working style. It also helps to connect with people and build a professional network. During internship, the authority doesn't sack someone for any wrong task by an intern, as it is the beginning of learning.

Internship is the real only real time learning process which helps to gain confidence and make ready to start a professional career.

1.2 Background of Internship

As a student of Department of Journalism and Mass Communication of Daffodil International University, a student must have to complete an internship or thesis and submit the report for obtain a graduation degree. It's a curriculum task to go through with internship period to gather practical knowledge of working in journalism and communication sector.

During an internship, an intern has to work under a supervisor in the appointed organization to learn the working process and policies. The supervisor observes the intern, give instructions and teach her/him the working tactics and attitude.

After completion of internship, an intern has to prepare a report and submit it to the university authority, which portray her/his working performance as an intern.

- Background of my internship

I worked as an intern in the Daily Observer for 70-days as a sub-editor to learn the working style and process of news editing. News editing is an art which prepare and present anews more meaningfully for the readers.

1.3 History of The Daily Observer

Following the independence from British rule, The Pakistan Observer once one was the oldest, continuously published English language daily newspaper came to the light in 1949. The newspaper was founded by HamidulHuq Choudhury, was born in Ramnagar village, Daganbhuiyanupazila, Feni district, (now Bangladesh) during the British Raj in 1901.

Since its inception as The Pakistan Observer in 1949, the newspaper consistently followed an independent editorial policy reflecting both the personality of its owner HamidulHuq Choudhury and its long time editor Abdus Salam, and was an appropriate stance considering the tumultuous history of the region. Mohammad Shehabullah served as the newspaper's first editor. Shehabullah was succeeded by Abdus Salam, who served as editor of The Pakistan Observer from 1949 to 1972.

The East Pakistan provincial government imposed an embargo on the newspaper's publication under the repressive Public Safety Act in February 1952. This occurred in response to the newspaper's strong support for the East Pakistan language movement and demands for provincial autonomy. Both HamidulHuq Choudhury and Abdus Salam were arrested at this time by the Pakistan Government to stifle the voice of the press. The United Front government withdrew the embargo in May 1954 following the coalitions landslide electoral victory.

In the early 1960s, the paper was black-listed and deprived of government advertising by the military government of General Ayub Khan due to its support for greater autonomy for East Pakistan. Immediately after the creation of Bangladesh, The Pakistan Observer was renamed as The Bangladesh Observer in December 1971. It's management was taken over by the Bangladesh government in January 1972. Later the military government of General Hussain Mohammed Ershad restored the newspaper to its original owner HamidulHuq Choudhury.

Now it's owned by Observer Ltd. and located at Aziz Bhaban (2nd floor), 93, Motijheel C/A, Dhaka-1000.

1.4 Introduction with the Supervisor:

During my internship at the Daily Observer, Mr. Abul Mansur Chowdhury, Joint News Editor of the Daily Observer, was my supervisor. He was born on 23rd December, 1955.

Mr. Chowdhury, who is also a Freedom Fighter, completed his Honors and Master's Degree on Political Science from the University of Dhaka in 1980.

He started his career as a Senior Sub-editor in 1982 in The New Nation and worked till 1990. From 1991 to 2016, he served as a Chief Sub-editor and Metro editor in The Daily Star.

Presently, he is working as a Joint News Editor in The Daily Observer.

Mr. Chowdhury is a friendly person, who is very much helpful to a new comer in this sector.

1.5 Duration of Internship

As part of academic internship, which hold 4 credits, I have worked- as an Intern Sub-editor for 10 weeks (70 days) in the City Desk to learn and get the practical experiences of news editing and page make-up. I had started my internship in the Daily Observer on 22 September, 2018 and officially ended it on 1 December, 2018.

Learning

3.1 Scope of Learning

In a workplace like the Daily Observer, scope of learning is vast. It goes beyond a set of formal activities designed to influence the acquisition of knowledge, skills, and attitudes of a specific learner segment.

Sub-editing is now becoming very much popular job in Bangladesh because of various newspapers, TV channels and specially for online news portals. As because of huge demand for skillful person on this sector, it is a big opportunity to work in a prestigious newspaper like the Daily Observer. Beside this, it's also challenging to work in an English daily. So I appreciate this as a big opportunity to work as an intern on this newspaper.

There have a huge number of knowledgeable, creative and charming personalities, who working as a journalist for a long time. Their knowledge, working patterns and thinking style is huge resource for real time learning.

I found so many things to learn with enjoyment, though I am not much satisfied as because I was there for only 70-days, which is not sufficient as I keen to learn.

3.2 Knowledge Gathering & Learnings

In the 21st century, gathering knowledge or learning something is very much easier than before, but the question is whether do you want to learn? Whom those are for ‘Yes’, they are lucky and I account myself as a lucky one. There were various proportion of learning things and matters, but I like to discuss on my topic, Sub-editing.

News Selection: As a sub-editor, it is important to understand the news value for selecting a news. Proximity, timeliness, human interest and trends are the key element to select a news. If a sub-editor neglect or ignore these points to select a news, for sure s/he is missing readers. As a sub-editor of city desk, my job was to select and edit news which were from various cities, all over the Bangladesh.

News Editing: News editing is an art, like cooking food or painting a portrait. A sub-editor’s job is to giving proper treatment like a doctor, sharp and confident stroke like a painter and serve like a cook to a news copy or report, for the readers who are keen to read and who are not. As sub-editors’ are very much known as ‘Gate Keeper’ and ‘Mid Wife’, it is also their duty to maintain the accuracy and clarity of content, which should publish on newspaper. A good and attractive headline, a charming presentation of a dull news can get more reader, just because of a good treatment by a sub-editor. I always tried to maintain natural flavor of a news, but some time I had to change or trim headline and news body for various issues, like to make it more interesting, sometime for lack space while page make-up. In the beginning, I had faced various problems like, spelling problem, as the Daily Observer follows the British style, preposition issues and many more. I always tried to checkout my copies by my senior colleagues and my supervisor.

Photo Caption: Appropriate caption writing for any newspaper, particularly for English dailies is real challenge for anyone. Sometimes a good caption can make a photo more effective and more meaningful. Writing caption is the art to describe a photo to the readers, while it’s a caption news, then it is more difficult and more important to give a better treatment. First three weeks I was very much heisted to write captions, but after a few time I was okay with this.

Page Make-up: ‘Newspaper makeup’ or page make-up is defined as the design of a newspaper page or the manner in which pictures, headlines and news stories are arranged on a page. The objectives of newspaper makeup area follows: to indicate the importance of the news, to make the page easy to read and to make the page attractive.

Page make-up policy or the design express the aesthetic sense of a newspaper’s personnel thought. It is like serving good food with a good decoration. A good decoration of a page can change the mind of a reader.

As I was taught about page make-up through Quark Xpress by our Course teacher Aftab Hossain, Lecturer, Daffodil International University, it was helpful to me to observe the editing sense of the designers and their policy of page make-up. His effort for teaching ‘Editing & page make-up’ was very much effective for me.

Later, several times I had to give direction for page make-up in the Daily Observer.

3.3 Tools and Technologies Used

Digital arena of news editing has make it easy to edit a news and submitting it to others. Only one and half decades ago, editing a news was a matter of pen with a lot papers. But now, news editing means computer and various software.

My used tools:

- 1) Computer
- 2) Internet connection
- 3) Microsoft word
- 4) E-mail
- 5) Websites
- 6) Adobe Photoshop
- 7) Quark XPress 5.0
- 8) Printer
- 9) Central Server

Chapter-4

Evaluation of Learning

4.1 Academic Learning

Academic learning is a process of gathering knowledge and acquisition of skills that developed with a curriculum in schools (school, college & university). Academic learning can enable individuals to gather knowledge, which is educational, scholastic and theoretical. Academic learning is a very old learning practice, which presence can seem in any historical age.

Academic learning provides the core knowledge like, social science, mathematics, linguistics, arts, communication, etc. Anyone can be a good photographer, but if s/he has the academic knowledge, then s/he will be better than others.

As it is a fixed curriculum based learning system, students or learners cannot choose about their topics to be learned. In that case, this process can be questioned because everyone's thinking style is not same. Every scientist doesn't experiment in a same way, every mathematician doesn't solve math with a same logic and every Chef doesn't cook biriyani with same recipe. But in academic learning system, every learner learns the common thing and gather common knowledge, though it is not totally unimportant. The fact is academic learning formulas should change, the whole system should upgrade gradually.

As an honors student of Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, I have learned so many things, with a few practical class practice and assignments. In this four year, I have gained the capability of thinking more effectively on social issues through the academic learning process.

4.2 Practical Work

The term 'Practical work' refer the meaning to do something with own hand and ideas by a student or a learner. Practical work is mostly effective way to learn or understand any topic.

In last four years, we did a few practical assignments, though those were not much sufficient. In that periods of practical class and work, we just got the basic ideas or knowledge to complete a task.

During the internship period, I have learned a lot about editing news through practical work. I have achieved various qualities like, working under pressure, completing task on time, more sincerity by working as an intern sub-editor. Beside these, I have so many things and tactics to complete a task more effectively and easily.

4.3 Correlation of academic learning and practical work

Academic learning is theoretical learning process, which is not much real time learning procedure and lack of upgradation.

On the other hand, practical learning is like hand on learning process, which is very much real time learning procedure and it also upgrade day by day.

But, academic learning and practical learning or work is a simultaneous process of overall learning attitude. No one will be able to ride a cycle or fly an airplane by knowing the rules and procedures of operation, in the meantime without knowing the procedure no one could ride or fly.

We have learned a lot of communication theories, news gathering and editing techniques and completed various news related course. While working in the Daily Observer, I have realized the importance and effectiveness of my academic knowledge, which helped me a lot to complete my tasks. For that reason, I was lauded by all in the newsroom. I am very much thankful to all of my respected Teachers.

Chapter-5

Experience and Achievements

5.1 Experience during internship

As newspaper is the starting of news media, experiencing a newsroom environment of an English newspaper is indescribable for me. Though I had worked in three well known news portals as Newsroom Editor, but working in an English daily as sub-editor enriched my knowledge and also experience level.

Newsroom environment, working under so many Senior Journalist, collaboration with others desk editors, observing and giving instruction for page make-up etc. were my wonderful experiences during the internship.

5.2 Skills developed during internship

The 70-day internship period was like a blink of eye time, but in this days, I have developed various skill. The skills which I have developed are listed below.

- Newsroom etiquette
- News editing
- Resource gathering
- More fluent in English writing
- Developing professional network
- Time management
- Working under pressure
- Taking challenges
- Gathered ideas about newspaper's newsroom
- Developed good practices

5.3 Expectation and Outcome

Being a volunteer of an international organization and also a photography student, I had opportunities to complete my internship in NGOs and TV channel. But my very first expectation was to work as an intern in an English newspaper, which was challenging for me.

Basically I was interested for photojournalism as an intern, but as present day media's demand and desire of experiencing something new, I changed my mind for sub-editing.

After completing my internship, I experienced a lot of new situations and matters, developed so many skills and my fellow colleagues appreciated me a lot. These are the outcome of my internship.

5.4 Achievements

- I am the very first academic intern sub-editor, who managed 10 pages for publishing all alone in three several days, including sub-editing, photo collection and caption writing, press release rewriting, news selection and giving direction for page make-up. As it is a record in the Daily Observer.
- Completion of internship in a leading English daily with success is another achievement.

5.5 Career opportunities

Completion of an honors degree on Journalism and Mass Communication from Daffodil International University under the supervision by a team of scholar and energetic teachers is very much prestigious for me. But it may not be sufficient for today's challenging media field.

After a long period of academic learning, internship make it more fruitful by hand on hand learning procedure, which gives the idea of real job experience. So I count this internship as an opening of my career.

- After completion of my internship, the Daily Observer authority asked me for submitting a CV and I did so.

During the internship, I have managed to make good relationship with my fellow colleagues, which may benefit me in future career and as well as personal life.

Chapter-6

Conclusion

6.1 SWOT Analysis

Strengths:

- Bring up innovative news
- Strong editorial section
- Cover running issues
- Easy & wonderful language pattern
- Having Bangla & English Online version

Weakness:

- Lack of employees
- Dependency on new agency
- Less creative photography section
- Biased to a political party
- Abolishing the supplementary named 'Young Observer'
- Lack space for refreshment in the office

Opportunities:

- Increasing salary & giving incentives
- Developing the online sections
- Developing the e-Paper
- Giving more opportunities for internship
- Recruiting employees from Journalism background of any university

Threats:

- No threats for sub-editors or a desk job.

6.2 Proposals for the Organization

- Increase salary & giving incentives
- Upgrade the online sections
- Develop the e-Paper
- Recruit more enthusiast photojournalist
- Giving more opportunities for internship
- Recruit more employees from Journalism background of any university

6.3 Concluding words

The purpose of an academic internship is to understand the work place environment and the profession with real life experience. This formal learning session ensure the quality and abilities of a student.

The internship at the Daily Observer newspaper was a great experience to me, as it is a very professional and renowned newspaper in our country. I am very much pleased to have such senior & helpful journalist as my colleague. Most of the reporters, editors and other colleagues were helpful to me. I am very much thankful to all of them. I hope relation between ours will continue in future.

This is my pride for completing my graduation from the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication of Daffodil International University, one of the most enriched Department and reputed University. I express my humble gratitude to all of my respected Teachers for taking a good care and maintaining a good relationship. I am grateful to the University authority for all supports in this nice journey.

GSBS: Bangladesh's success stories impress global audience

Wolfsburg, Nov 9: Bangladesh's impressive success stories in various areas, including women empowerment, came in the limelight repeatedly here as the ninth edition of two-day Global Social Business Summit (GSBS) began on Thursday promising to build a new civilization and better future.

Each Bangladesh national attending the annual event and the leading conference on social business or entrepreneurship got a proud moment when speakers repeatedly referred to Bangladesh for its success stories.

Around 800 participants from 55 countries, including youngsters, experts from the private sector, civil society, governments and academia are participating in the event with the theme - 'Building a new civilization'.

Board Member of Grameen Creative Lab Monica Yunus sang a Bangla song, 'Ami Banglar Gaan Gai', keeping key members of Bangladesh delegation on stage that impressed huge international audience in the conference hall and people who watched from other global destinations live.

The smart kid, her son, added colour when he started waving a traditional hand fan in one hand holding his mother with another hand.

Later, Nobel Peace Prize Laureate Prof Muhammad Yunus recalled when he first came here alone, then with his daughter Monica and this time with his grandchild symbolising that he wants a beautiful world for all representing these three generations.

"Just take it as a challenge and we'll do that, creating a new civilization," he said. The founder of Grameen Bank said he created his picture of new civilization. "You create your own picture of new civilization. Let's work together hand in hand. And it'll happen (building a new civilization)."

He said, "If I want to create the world that way it'll be created. Nothing is impossible for human being."

On an inspirational note, Prof Yunus said the moment he sees something impossible, he gets excited. "We can't leave anything saying it is impossible."

He shared the dream of creating a world together which is not greed-driven society but driven by human values from the private sector, civil society, governments and academia are participating in the event with the theme - 'Building a new civilization'.

Prof Yunus said three things, wealth concentration, environmental threats and artificial intelligence, make him worried and urged all to act to overcome the challenges.

He said around half a billion people will become jobless in the next 15 years due to artificial intelligence which is believed to replace human being and said all human beings are born to be entrepreneurs.

Parliamentary State Secretary to the Federal Minister for Economic Cooperation and Development Dr Maria Flachsbart said the Social Business Summit reflects the spirit of Social Development Goals (SDGs) and it tells them enter into partnership.

"We've common goals, ending global poverty and making global future sustainable," she said adding that they can only do it by working together and by thinking out of box and in an innovative way.

The main topics of the GSBS 2018 are having sharing and caring attitude in all.

Appreciating Grameen Bank's role and women empowerment in Bangladesh, Dr Maria said, "This is an impressive success story."

She said if they jointly continue to work on spreading Social Business ideas, they can make huge contributions towards implementing the SDGs.

Prof Yunus and his creative adviser Hans Reitz organised the two-day annual event that will end on Friday.

The main topics of the GSBS 2018 are having sharing and caring attitude in all, plastic and circular economy, mobility, solidarity, sports and social business and food and its value. The worldwide leading forum serves to spread awareness about social business, foster discussions and collaboration between practitioners and stakeholders, as well as present and conceive best practices.

The participants experienced outstanding Social Business entrepreneurs, great keynote, master classes, workshops and networking sessions during the two-day Summit.

Hans Reitz said plastic does not belong to nature and they need a fundamental system change to address the problem. "What we need is a circular economy."

The 9th edition, organisers said, represented an important step for the social business community they have fostered over the past years, as they are working concretely on action steps that will aim to build a new civilization. —UNB

Three held with Yaba tablets in city

Rapid Action Battalion (RAB) members recovered 10,000 contraband Yaba pills and arrested three alleged drug traders from the city's Mohammadpur Towhally market area on Thursday evening. The arrestees are Md Belal Daria, 26, Alangir Hossain, 23, and Mahabur Rahman, 24.

Based on a secret information, a team of RAB-2 battalion conducted a drive at Mohammadpur Towhally market at 06:15pm. Sensing the presence of the law enforcers, the trio tried to flee, said Assistant Director (Media) of the RAB-2 ASP Md Saiful Malik.

They chased the drug traders and caught them. After interrogation, the elite force members recovered the Yaba tablets from their possessions.

During preliminary interrogation, they revealed that they usually bring the contraband items from Cox's Bazar and then supply those to different areas in the city, he said. —UNB

RCC distributes dustbins as part of cleanliness campaign

RAJSHAHI, Nov 9: Rajshahi City Corporation (RCC) started distributing dustbins among the businessmen as part of its cleanliness campaign. RCC Mayor AHM Khairuzzaman Liton distributed 10 dustbins among businessmen at Shaheb Bazar area and took part in the cleanliness drive there on Thursday to motivate and inspire the businessmen and others concerned towards keeping their surroundings neat and clean.

In phases, the mayor will distribute 12,000 dustbins among the businessmen so that they can keep their respective places clean. RCC Panel Mayors Shariful Islam Babu, Rajab Ali and Tahera Begum, Editor of Daily Sorrali Sangbad Liakat Ali, President of Rajshahi Chamber of Commerce and Industry Md Muniruzzaman and President of RDA Market Businessmen Association Farid Mamud Hassan were present on the occasion.

Speaking on the occasion, Mayor Liton said sound health is the most important wealth and urged all the city dwellers including the traders and businessmen to maintain cleanliness to improve environment and reduce the extent of diseases aiming to build a healthy and prosperous nation.

He said "Our environment is a testimony to the state of our mentality. We indiscriminately pollute our environment. RCC's cleanliness effort is not enough. United way we have to make efforts to change our habit. We have to clean and also stop throwing garbage to protect our environment".

He highlighted the importance of maintaining cleanliness at office premises, institutions, home-steads and open market places in the city since cleanliness is a must to keep air fresh and improve environment.

In the absence of adequate awareness programmes and coordinated waste management policy, people dump wastes and make streets and public places dirty, Liton said.

Support for Bangladesh's dev, infrastructure projects to continue: China

Chinese Foreign Minister Wang Yi has said China will continue supporting Bangladesh's various economic development and infrastructure projects. He conveyed this to Bangladesh's Foreign Secretary M Shahidul Haque at a meeting in Beijing, said the Foreign Ministry here on Friday. Shahidul Haque led a 10-member Bangladesh delegation to the 11th Bangladesh-China Foreign Office Consultation (FOC) held in Beijing on Thursday. The Chinese side was led by Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs of China Kong Xianyou. Bangladesh Ambassador to China Fazlul Karim and senior representatives from both sides were present. The Chinese Vice Minister reiterated his country's commitment to play a positive and constructive role in resolving the Rohingya crisis and appreciated the staunch political will of Bangladesh to resolve the crisis peacefully. Foreign Secretary Shahidul Haque noted that the crisis originated as a conflict between the Myanmar government and its own people and stressed that Myanmar should start taking back its people without further delay as per the agreement reached during the recently concluded Joint Working Group (JWG) meeting. In this context, he urged the Chinese side to do its utmost to encourage Myanmar to create a conducive environment for the speedier return of the displaced Rohingyas to their homeland in Rakhine. The FOC reviewed various global, regional and sub-regional issues of mutual interests. Issues of bilateral cooperation were also discussed at length. It took stock of the implementation status of decisions taken in the past at different levels of the two governments. A host of new and emerging issues also came up for discussion. The FOC, especially focused on progress of materialising the agreement reached during the visit of Chinese President Xi Jinping to Bangladesh in October 2016 and during the visit of Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina to China in June 2014. The FOC outlined the future course of action to carry forward the ongoing works to translate into action the commitments reached at the leaders' level. The Vice Minister of China stated that Bangladesh is an important country for China's Belt and Road Initiative. The Foreign Secretary underscored Bangladesh's support for the regional initiatives on connecting, energy cooperation and economic integration under Saarc, BIMSTEC, BRICS and BIMCM amongst other forums. He noted that Bangladesh is engaged with all major economic powers of the world for realising its legitimate development aspirations and connectivity across all major fields of economic partnerships. He briefed the Chinese side about the Vision 2021 and the Vision 2041 outlined by Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and sought continued Chinese support for the realisation of the Vision. Consensus was reached at the FOC to expedite the approval pro-

BNP unlikely to join polls: Ershad

Jatiya Party Chairman HM Ershad on Thursday said the chaotic incident that took place in front of BNP's office indicates that it may not join the 11th parliamentary election.

"It'll be good if BNP comes to the polls. Jatiya Party will contest the 300 seats if BNP finally doesn't join the election," he said. The Jatiya Party chief came up with the remarks while talking to reporters at his Bhamni office.

He said they will not discuss joining the election in alliance. "If BNP joins the election, we'll go to the polls in alliance. Hope, we'll get a decent number of seats if we contest the election in alliance."

Ershad said their party's parliamentary board meeting will take the final decision about it on November 16.

He said their party leaders and activists are delighted ahead of the election as about 2,500 nomination forms of the party were sold over the last four days. "It's a very positive sign for Jatiya Party."

4-day garment, textile machinery expo begins at ICCB

A 4-day expo on garments and textile machineries and other accessories in the production process got underway on Thursday in the city's International Convention City, Bashundhara (ICCB).

More than a hundred local and foreign firms are participating in the fair to showcase their latest products and services for the country's readymade garments (RMG) and textile industries.

Inaugurating the expo, Commerce Minister Tofiqul Alam said that the government has been extending its full support to grow the country's business prospects. As a result, the contribution of the industries sector, especially textiles and garments, has witnessed substantial growth in the last few years.

Turning to politics, he criticised the opposition BNP centring its demand for deferring the general election, noting that the Election Commission has already deferred the polls for a week responding to their demand. "But again they are making the same demand. But we are not in agreement with such demand. The Election Commission will take the final decision in this regard," he said.

RED Carpet 365-an event management firm-organised the fair titled: Bangladesh International Garment and Expo 2018 where local and foreign firms displayed their garment and textile machineries.

The event was also addressed by Bangladesh Garment Manufacturers and Exporters Association (BGMEA) senior vice-president Faruk Hasan and Bangladesh Knitwear Manufacturers and Exporters Association senior vice-president Monsur Ahmed.

Tofiqul Alam said the Awami League government has been pursuing business-friendly policies to facilitate trade and industries across the country.

Faruk Hasan said Bangladesh has become the second largest exporter of RMG in the global market for the government's supportive role. "We want this policy support to continue in future for the sake of the country's RMG sector," he added.

Four of a family sustain burn injuries in Savar

Four members of a family sustained burn injuries as some unidentified militants set fire on their house at Bakertpur in Savar, on the outskirts of the capital early Thursday. The injured were identified as Zahid, 35, his wife Smita Akter, 30 and their children Sumaya Akter, 9, and Suraiya Akter, 5.

A fire broke out at the house of Zahid when a group of militants hurled some inflammable substance to the house through the window around 05:30am, leaving four people injured, according to locals.

Later, the victims' neighbours rescued them and took them to Savar Enam Medical College Hospital. The condition of the four victims was stated to be critical, said Nasir Uddin, an in-charge of the hospital (OT). On information, police went to the spot and investigating the incident, said Abdul Auaf, officer-in-charge of Savar Model Police Station.

Madrasa girl 'gang raped' in Sylhet

Sylhet, Nov 24: A fourteen-year-old girl was gang-raped by some miscreants at her house at Sheurkhal village in Bakaganj Upazila on Thursday. Victim's father filed a case with Balaganj Police Station over the incident accusing six people, two named and four unnamed-on Friday.

According to the case statement, two next-door youths, Abad Ali and Azar Ali, along with four other accomplices who were lurking nearby, intercepted her daughter when she went out of her room on Thursday night.

Later, the culprits forcibly took her to a cowshed and violated her there in turns as she lost her senses. Hearing the hue and cry from the spot, family members rushed in and took her to Sylhet Osmani Medical College and Hospital. In the meantime, the accused fled the scene.

Officer-in-Charge of Balaganj Police Station Gazi Ataur Rahman said police arrested Abad and Azar, who were named in the case statement on Saturday afternoon. Meanwhile, different human rights groups have been vocal over the rape and demanded exemplary punishment of the accused. —UNB

Seven killed in road crashes in 3 dists

At least seven people were killed in separate road accidents in Kushtia, Natore and Chattogram districts on Sunday morning.

In Natore, two people were killed and 30 others including 20 students were injured following a head-on collision between a bus and a truck on Natore-Pabna highway in Guna Hat area of Boriganj upazila.

The identities of the deceased could not be known immediately. The accident took place around 09:45am when the bus carrying a group of students of Bonpara Degree College and Bonpara Mahila Degree College collided with the cement-laden truck, leaving truck driver and an unidentified bus passenger dead on the spot, said Abdul Halim, officer-in-charge of Bonpara Police Station.

In Chattogram, Primary Education Completion (PEC) examinee Esha Akter, 12, and a female garment worker Meherun Akter, 26, were killed in separate road accidents in Patia upazila and Bandar area of the port city in the morning.

Sub-inspector Alauddin Talukder of Chattogram Medical College Hospital (CMCH) outpost said that a bus hit Esha Akter, daughter of Dedarul Islam of Bininshara area, while she was waiting for a vehicle in front Chitlashah Market in Patia upazila around 09:00am for going to her exam centre, leaving her critically injured. Meanwhile, Meherun Akter was killed as a bus hit her in Majhirpara area around 7:15am while she was going to her workplace, said Jahirul Haque, in-charge of CMCH Police Outpost.

In Kushtia, a total of three people were killed and 25 others injured in separate road accidents in Khoksa and Mirpur upazilas in the morning. A B M Mehedi Masud, officer-in-charge of Khoksa Police Station, said two bus passengers Mahabub Uddin, 58, and Abdul Kader, 65, were killed and 25 others injured as the bus plunged into a roadside ditch on Kushtia-Rajshahi highway in Mirzapur area after its driver lost his control over the steering. —UNB

Japan Wheelchair User Sues Over Ban From Wine Tasting Event

A wheelchair user who was stopped from drinking alcohol at a wine tasting event over "safety" concerns is seeking compensation in a Japanese court. The man in his 50s is demanding 1.7 million yen ($15,000) in damages from both organizers and Seibu Department Store in Tokyo, where the event was held in August, the Mainichi Shimbun newspaper reported Thursday.

During the trial's first day on Wednesday, the manual wheelchair user whose name was withheld told the Tokyo district court that he was asked to stop drinking after two glasses of wine, the daily said.

Staff gave him a written statement which said: "To customers coming to the store with manual and electric wheelchairs, please refrain from tasting."

His complaint noted that the act was "unjust discrimination" against him and violated the nation's disability discrimination law for individuals, the newspaper said. "Accidents and troubles inside the store are not always caused by wheelchair users," his lawyer told the court, saying the defendant treated wheelchair users as "a nuisance."

But a lawyer of the department store, run by Seibu & Seibu, told the court that the instruction was "necessary to secure safety," the daily said.

The legal team added that there were minor accidents between an electric wheelchair user and customers when the store held a similar wine tasting event two years ago. —ndv

How what we buy affects endangered species?

The things we consume, from iPhones to cars to IKEA furniture, have costs that we don't see. What if the soybeans used to make that tofu you ate last night were grown in fields that had been cut over of high-value habitat in Malaysia?

Unless you buy sustainably sourced food or goods, however, it can be hard to know just how consumer purchases affect species until now. Daniel Moran from the Norwegian University of Science and Technology and his colleague Keiichiro Kanemoto from Shinshu University in Japan have developed a technique that allows them to identify threats to wildlife caused by the global supply chains that fuel our consumption. They've used this technique to create a series of world maps that show the species threat hotspots across the globe for individual countries.

Their article describing this effort has been published online in Nature Ecology & Evolution this week.

6803 species considered. The researchers calculated the percentage of threat to species in the country due to consumption of goods in another, with a focus on 6,803 species of vertebrates, endangered, or critically endangered marine and terrestrial animals as defined by the International Union for Conservation of Nature

This map shows the species threat hotspots caused by US consumption. The darker the color, the greater the threat caused by the consumption. The magenta color represents terrestrial species, while the blue represents marine species.

(IUCN) and BirdLife International.

One way to see how the hotspot maps work is to look at the effects of US consumption across the globe. For terrestrial species, the researchers found that US consumption caused species threat hotspots in Southeast Asia and Madagascar, but also in southern Europe, the Sahel, the east and west coasts of southern Mexico, throughout Central America and Central Asia and into southern Canada. Perhaps one of the biggest surprises was that US consumption also caused species threat hotspots in southern Spain and Portugal.

Connecting environmental problems to economic activity. Moran says making the connection between consumption and environmental impacts offers an important opportunity for governments, companies, and individuals to take an informed look at these impacts so they can find ways to counteract them.

"Connecting observations of environmental problems to economic activity, that is the innovation here," he said. "Once you connect the environmental impact to a supply chain, then many people along the supply chain, not only producers, can participate in cleaning up that supply chain."

As an example, he said, government regulators can only control the producers whose products cause biodiversity losses and deforestation in Indonesia. But if the EU wanted to look at its role in causing those problems in Indonesia, they could look at the maps produced by the researchers and see what kind of impacts EU consumers are having on that country, and where those impacts are located-the hotspots.

The EU "could decide to adjust their research priorities to focus on certain hotspots in Southeast Asia," Moran said. "Companies could also use these maps to find out where their environmental impact hotspots are, and make changes." —sciencedaily
